

Expert opinion about the new GrooVi V bevel router set

Let's Groove

RENOTECH DUO® developed the Duoline® GrooVi V bevel router set. We asked the opinion of an independent expert, Jan van der Kroef - proprietor of 'BRN Parket' in IJsselstein. As skilled wood floor fitter he is also head teacher of the only school for wood floor fitters in The Netherlands, the 'Gildevaart ROC' in Nieuwegein. By all standards he is a master in his class!

Unique alignment

Answering the question what is so special about this router set, Jan comments with enthusiasm: "The alignment is unique. The GrooVi V works with little alignment points, which click into place. Other systems work with wheels which cause them to be less steady. The GrooVi V automatically aligns with the bevel, which is seldom running in a straight line. That is why this router set is so amazingly easy to use. There's a real click... just listen and you'll notice. When the router set centers you hear the alignment points click into place. Other systems make you take chances on the alignment, with all the obvious and well-known floor ruining consequences."

"There's a real click... just listen and you'll notice."

No dusty image

The general router image is one of dust and pollution. The GrooVi V router set will not allow dust to settle. "The machine is easy to follow by crawling behind it, thanks to powerful dust extraction. You can even connect an extraction hose to the vacuum. No more dusting around for craftsmen and their customers."

Let's groove

At the school for wood floor fitters a router system is in use where the wheels follow the bevel, but just as easily 'jump' out again. The school also uses a system with a guide rail. These systems need to be adjusted time and again for proper alignment. "RENOTECH DUO® will provide for a GrooVi V to be at our disposal. An excellent initiative which shortly will allow 'my boys' to use this wonderful router set. Let's groove" according to Jan.

This product is patented.
